Liver Screen for Hepatitis B carrier $500

Hepatitis B infection is still fairly prevalent in Singapore. People with chronic hepatitis B infection are at increased risk of developing liver hardening and liver cancer. Liver cancer is the 4th most common cancer among Singapore males.

Hence surveillance should be offered to Hepatitis B carrier with the aim of detecting a high viral load that can potentially cause liver cancer, as well as detecting early liver cancer that is more amenable to treatment. The screening will include a hepatitis B viral load, liver cancer marker, liver function test and a liver ultrasound

Liver Screen for Hepatitis B carrier includes:
